Sunday School Attendance Growing

Several Sunday School superintendents were given big surprises yesterday when their attendance went over the goal set for their school for the month of March. Several were far ahead of their goal while others just made the grade and others only a few points behind. The total average set for March was 8,768 and this mark was passed yesterday when the total was 9,488. The goal for Easter Sunday is 9,864 and should the hold up the way they have the last couple of weeks that mark will be easily reached. Every School has moved their goal ahead for next week when many expect to break all previous records. First Baptist held onto second place and United Brethren third place Sunday. The total hold up the way they have the last

KOLATIANATIVE

When the tiny veins of the head become clogged, thereby preventing the blood from functioning freely, congestion follows and the resultant pressure upon these veins causes painful, throbbing headaches, neuritis, toothache, neuritis and neuritis. Kolat relieves this congestion by distending these veins and allowing the blood to flow freely and consequently removes the pain and aches described. Kolat also acts on the bowels, cleansing the system of poisonous waste, corrects stomach disorders and leaves no distressing after effects. It is also a splendid aid in eradicating rheumatism. At druggists. Sold by Presler & Streich, Wurster Bros., Red Cross Pharmacy, H. J. Brandel.

Ice Gorge Again Forms

SIoux CITY, IOWA, March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—The ice gorge jamming the Missouri river near Sargent's Bluff, which broke up Saturday night, has reformed at Quawna, Iowa, about forty miles southeast of here. Appeals from Omaha were received in Sioux City, for aid in breaking up huge dam after the river had reached flood stage there. The stream had fallen eight feet here since the ice gorge here went out Saturday night, relieving the danger of flood. The gorge at Omaha is eight miles long.

Suits Filed

CINCINNATI, O., March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Two suits, aggregating $10,000, were filed in common pleas court here today against Milton D. Campbell, commander of the Bentley of the American Legion, as the result of his controversy with former soldiers, who sold an exclusive men's publication on the streets here.

An action for $50,000 was filed against Campbell by Victor N. Miller, publisher of the magazine, known as "The Service Record." Morris Abernethy, also known as Morris Bernum, who was arrested on a charge of peddling in a congested district, filed suit for $20,000.

They allege injury to reputation.

Finds Roman Basilica

SPAN, TENIS, March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—In her olive garden bordering on the Sahara desert, Mrs. Helene Joannes, a former Wesleyan student has discovered the remains of an old Roman basilica. The find is of great interest to archaeologists and historians for its connection with the history of the Roman occupation of Northern Africa. Fascinated by the discovery of the tomb of King Tutankhamen, Mrs. Joannes started excavations in the wild Arab country near Mahabara. She was rewarded by unearthing a stone basilica used by the Romans in the second century.

Hughes Replies

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Secretary Hughes has answered the second proposal of allied representatives in Paris negotiating for the settlement of American claims for repayment of the costs of maintaining the American army of occupation in Germany. The reply was called by Eliot Wadsworth, the American representative in Paris, and will be delivered by him at tomorrow's meeting of the allied representatives.

The impression was given in official quarters that the reply indicated a willingness on the part of the Washington government to deduct from the total amount of its claims the value of German property which came into possession of the American army as a result of the armistice. Unofficial reports from Paris fix this amount at about $3,000,000 gold marks. While state department spokesmen decline to comment as to the contents of Secretary Hughes' answer it was said today there was every reason to believe the negotiations would work out satisfactorily.

Rarden Visitors

A. C. Christian and J. M. Wilkoff, who next to Mayor Walter V. Scott are Rarden's most prominent citizens, were in the city Monday on business. Mr. Christian was accompanied by his wife and son and daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Christian.

The Honor Of Portsmouth

plating the erection of a Million and a Half Dollar plant. They had several locations in view. Portsmouth, whose growth and prosperity had been largely increased by the great plant of the steel corporation, already in operation at once urged the advantages of locating the new plant here. After some consideration the officials of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, said they would build their plant in Portsmouth, with one proviso attached. That concerned the housing of a certain class of employees. Would Portsmouth agree to have homes that these employees could rent or buy.

They did not ask for any bonus, nor any donations. They simply wanted to be assured that when they were ready to operate, their employees could find suitable homes.

They had had experience with finding homes for employees in Portsmouth and they wanted to be assured there would be no difficulty so far as employees of the rod and wire mill were concerned. That was all.

Without a dissenting voice, the representatives of the city of Portsmouth pledged the honor and integrity of her citizens that this would be done, that homes for certain classes of employees would be provided. They did so, having faith in the citizens of the community. And all Portsmouth rejoiced at the coming of a great new enterprise that would undoubtedly be followed by various subsidiary plants.

Times were rather bad then and it was decided to wait until a more auspicious occasion to raise the money to build the homes. The subscriptions could readily have been obtained then, with the securing or losing of the plant in the balance. But, we are sorry to say, some who were enthusiastic then, are cold now that the plant is already here. Why worry, they say, the plant is here, let the company take care of its own employees. They take that attitude of the welcher in any business transaction. Not an enviable position, is it?

Now, we say frankly and squarely, that Portsmouth is at the cross roads. We are going to keep our pledged faith or we are not. We are going to be able to stand up and look every man squarely in the eye, or we are going to descend into the shifty-eyed, welcher class. That is all up to you, citizens of Portsmouth.

How can you help? Why can you take just one share in Housing Company stock. It will cost you One Hundred Dollars and payments for same are spread over a period of months, no more than Twenty-Five per cent callable at any one time. This is not a donation. It is an investment both literally and in the future of Portsmouth. Under the very worst possible conditions, you would not lose more than Twenty or Twenty Five per cent. But you will not lose, looking at it from a purely commercial standpoint. No man or woman who had faith in the city of Portsmouth has lost a dollar in real estate investment.

We will discuss this matter further during the week. We will go into some details. A faithful band of solicitors is now at work. They may not have your name. But why not call at or telephone to soliciting headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce rooms and tell them you will do your part and the man or woman who takes one share is just as gladly welcomed as the man or woman who feels able to take more.

This is a time when the solid, substantial citizens of Portsmouth should do their share to preserve the good name of our city, to show the world that here is a community that keeps the faith.

Want Ship Board To Quit

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—A recommendation that the shipping board retire from business, scrap all inferior vessels and sell its remaining tonnage to American citizens "without any restriction," was the basis of a program submitted today by a congressional committee of the American Steamship Owners' Association.

The association recommended that all ships not sold after a reasonable lapse of time should be scrapped and went on record as being of the opinion that "an American merchant marine in foreign trade cannot be built up through government operation."

Death Calls

Mrs. Jenkins

Special to Times
OAK HILL, March 26.—After many months of silent suffering and helplessness, death at last freed the soul of Mrs. Ellen Jenkins, the summons coming to her at her home Friday. Mrs. Jenkins was one of Oak Hill's best known and most respected women, and her death, while not unexpected, comes as a shock to her friends and relatives. The end came peacefully, while she was surrounded by those she loved best, her children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Jenkins was twice married, her first husband being David Jones. For several years they lived at Sallis. After her husband's death she remarried, the second time to Edward Jenkins. He also preceded her to the spirit world. She was the mother of three children, Cliff Jones, who died a few years ago, Nellie Cleveland, now living in Columbus and Kate Bowser of Springfield.

Several years ago she was stricken with paralysis, since which time she has been lovingly and unceasingly cared for by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jessie Jones. Besides the two children, she is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Andrew Seal and Elizabeth Jones of Oak Hill, Mrs. Sarah Hughes of Huntington, W. Va., also several grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Jury Tampering Probe

WAUKEGAN, ILLS., March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Witnesses were gathered here today, ready to go before the recalled Lake county grand jury to testify regarding alleged attempts to bribe the witnesses in the trial of Governor Lee Small, acquitted for misappropriation of state funds after a six weeks' trial last year.

William Riley, former saloon keeper at Antioch, Ill., reported to have charged that J. Blernie Field, gun warman at Havana, Ill., accepted $500 from an alleged fund given him to influence jurors, was under guard in a hotel in a north shore suburb, according to reports.

Venetia begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice. In numerous escapades Michael narrowly escapes capture by taking desperate chances. Because Greys recognizes the many good qualities in Janet he deals with her leniently. After the Leeds bank robbery, Sayers is forced to flee the country. Returning to England at a later date, he again resumes command of his dangerous gang of criminals. Janet, somewhat tired of the same, gradually awakens to the fact that Michael is a hard taskmaster. She compares him with Sir Norman Greys.

THIS, as near as I can remember, is a copy of the letter I received the wonderful third day of March. We beg to inform you that, under the will of the late William Soale, member of Parliament, Surrey, you are entitled to a legacy of 250 pounds, net of duty.

As the estate is so small, and the assets are chiefly in War Loan, we are in a position to pay you that sum an hour later, when I found the same woman ensconced in a corner of the tender which was to take us back to the steamer. She scowled at me sullenly when we came on board; and acting entirely on impulse, I walked straight across to her.

"Have I offended you in any way?" I inquired. "It seems to me that we are strangers."

She looked at me steadfastly. Her face, which normally must have been soft and pretty, had become hard and cold.

"You are Janet Stanfield, are you not?" she asked.

"That is certainly my name," I admitted, more puzzled than ever. She looked at me in doubting silence. "I have seen your picture," she said gloomily.

"Where?"

"In New York. He carried it with him."

SHE turned deliberately away, as though determined not to enter into any further conversation. I found her unavailability to some extent a relief, but when I stepped on board again, my blessed peace of mind was gone. I relapsed into my former frame of mind and endeavored to keep away from everyone. Mr. Poppie, however, refused to accept my plain hints. He dragged his chair over to my corner on deck.

"Mrs. Louisa K. Martin—that lady's name," he informed me. "She comes from way out West, beyond Milwaukee. She is getting out at Marseilles."

"I had forgotten all about her," I replied mechanically.

"I'd give her a wide berth if I were you," he advised. Traveling about as much as I do, I've got kind of used to taking stock of people's expressions, and the way she looked at you was real mean."

I declined to continue the conversation.

Our conversation was suddenly interrupted in a very unexpected fashion. My stewardess entered, with a thin blue strip in her hand.

"Wireless for you, Mrs. Soale," she announced, addressing me by the name under which I had booked my passage.

"For me?" I repeated incredulously. "There must be some mistake. Nobody knows that I am on board."

"It's Mrs. Soale, right enough," the stewardess assured me. "There's no one else of that name among the passengers."

I tore open the envelope. My companion watched me with glittering eyes. She could scarcely wait until the stewardess had departed.

"You liar!" she raged. "You see what you have done! You have laid a trail for the police to follow from London to Marseilles."

She poured out abuse. I heard

If you are a constipation victim you need Bran that is ALL BRAN

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is so delicious and inviting that thousands of families use it constantly to make enticing bakery batches, such as bran muffins, pancakes, raisin bread, etc.; they eat it as a cereal, and many sprinkle it on their favorite cereal, its nut-like flavor having a fine appeal.

Many more thousands of people eat Kellogg's Bran every day of their lives because it has permanently relieved them of constipation and the dangers of dreaded diseases that constipation leads to. If you are suffering with constipation you need ALL BRAN—Kellogg's Bran—with its permanent corrective qualities. Foods that are part bran can never give the desired relief because they do not contain sufficient of the elements that Kellogg's Bran naturally contains.

When you know that constipation leads directly to Bright's disease and other ailments, there is no time to be lost in experimenting. Kellogg's Bran, delicious in its patented cooked and krumbled form, becomes an indispensable necessity. It is eaten regularly (two tablespoons daily)—it will relieve constipation permanently! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran. It will free you from proprietary pills and cathartics which are as system-making and almost as dangerous to health as constipation itself!

Serve Kellogg's Bran regularly. Watch the health of your entire family improve. It is wonderful for children. Kellogg's Bran is printed on each package. All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled.

station and announced my intention of going to bed. As I entered the music-room on the way to my cabin, there was a curious cessation of conversation. Mrs. Louisa K. Martin, who was seated in an easy-chair, very becomingly dressed in black, with a long rope of pearls around her neck, looked at me with steady insolence. I walked straight up to her chair. I knew that she had been saying things about me, and I was furious.

"Are you meeting my husband at Marseilles, Mrs. Martin?" I asked her.

I was sorry for the question directly the words had left my lips—sorry for her too, in a way. She turned deathly pale, and it looks could have killed. I should have been a dead woman. She made no answer at all. I waited for a moment and then passed on to my stateroom.

I must have been about ten o'clock that night when I heard a soft tapping at my door. I guessed at once who it was, and I guessed right. It was Mrs. Louisa Martin, wrapped in a dressing-gown and with slippers on her feet. She closed the door carefully, and she put her fingers to her lips.

"We must be careful," she whispered. "You were mad to speak of Michael openly."

"Of my husband?"

She laughed contemptuously. "He married me years before you," she replied, "and another before either of us."

I turned away from her, that she should not see the hate in my face. Some conviction of this sort had been growing upon me of late.

"When two women love the same man," Louisa Martin continued, "they should forget everything when he is in danger. I don't see love in your face," she went on. "Then why are you here?"

"I see no reason why I should discuss that or any other subject with you," I answered. "But as a matter of fact I had no idea that Michael was in Marseilles."

"I thought that she would have struck me. The fire of belief blazed in her eyes."

"What are you doing on this steamer then?" she demanded.

"I came for a holiday trip," I told her.

She leaned a little toward me. In the unshaded light of the cabin her face seemed wan, almost aged.

"Listen," she said: "this is a matter of life or death for Michael. You heard through some one of his being in Marseilles. Tell me through whom."

"I swear that I had no idea he was there," I repeated.

"You fool!" she exclaimed. "Can't you see that you are probably following—that the police are making use of you?"

"You are in the same position yourself," I reminded her.

"Indeed I am not," she assured me earnestly. "I was born in Marseilles. I have traveled there repeatedly. I know every corner and stone of the place. It was I who taught Michael that it was the finest hiding-place in the world for the educated criminal. It was I who took him where he is now."

MR. POPPIE REFUSED TO ACCEPT MY PLAIN HINTS. HE DRAGGED HIS CHAIR TO MY CORNER.

Our conversation was suddenly interrupted in a very unexpected fashion. My stewardess entered, with a thin blue strip in her hand.

"Wireless for you, Mrs. Soale," she announced, addressing me by the name under which I had booked my passage.

"For me?" I repeated incredulously. "There must be some mistake. Nobody knows that I am on board."

Thief Enters W. A. Wurster's Home While He Is Reading; Steals Overcoats

It's fortunate for W. A. Wurster, secretary-treasurer and general manager of The Tracy Shoe company, that the balmy breezes of spring-time are just 'round the corner. In this connection it is well to state that AL was the owner of three overcoats which protected his manly form from wintry blasts, but now he has none. This situation came about through a visit by a bold sneak thief to his home, 1216 Fourth street, early Sunday evening, the unwelcome guest departing with the three garments which were on a rack in the front hall. The intruder calmly walked into the house through the front door and decamped with the coats without disturbing Mr. Wurster, who was in an adjoining room reading. The theft on being discovered was reported to the police.

One of the coats taken was dark blue in color, with green stripes, another was black with velvet collar, and the other a light tan herringbone.

that in any economic conference, the United States as host would have to lay down a program and this would involve sacrifices just as was done at the outset of the arms conference. It was also contended by the president that until the senate acted on the arms' treaties there would be no use entering into further conferences and when the senate did act, the statement was made that until the powers which signed the arms agreements actually ratified them. It would be futile to propose other economic readjustments, which involved questions even more delicate than limitation of naval armament. All the powers have ratified except France and action by the French is expected within a fortnight.

The arguments, however, against America's taking the initiative remain the same in the executive's mind. He feels that until Europe is in a more accommodating mood a conference on economic questions would be deadlocked. Belgium did take the initiative a few months ago and her invitation to an economic conference to be held at Brussels still holds good. Her activities had the warm approval of the American government. But when inquiry was made as to whether France would consent to permit the subject of reparations to be made a part of the program of the economic conference, the Poincare government at Paris flatly refused. There has been no change of ministry in France since then and the latter situation has developed in the meantime, introducing a new series of problems which France is demanding shall be settled between Germany and France directly.

The president has felt that the success of any economic conference hinges first of all on a willingness to make mutual sacrifices and upon a recognition of the fact that reparations furnish the keynote of the arch of world readjustment. Most Europeans insist that the debts of the allies to each other and to the United States are also fundamental but President Harding feels that American public opinion would not approve putting into the hopper the subject of war debts because such a step might be construed as inviting a discussion of debt cancellation against which congress already has taken a determined stand in legislation limiting the powers of the commission created to negotiate for the funding of the war debts.

Being unable therefore, to propose a sacrifice on war debts, being unable also to persuade France to discuss a readjustment of German reparations, the president has the firm belief that a world economic conference would be a good thing if there were any assurance of progress being made on these important fundamentals.

The resolution passed at Rome, largely through the efforts of John H. Finley of Boston, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, represents the sentiment of the executive organization of the American chamber and has the support of many groups of American business men who want to see the purchasing power of Europe increased through improved exchange rates. Mr. Finley is an ardent champion of international cooperation and a firm believer in the League of Nations idea. He is a Democrat and a warm admirer of Woodrow Wilson. The present head of the United States Chamber of Commerce is Julius H. Barnes of Duluth, a Republican, and an intimate friend of Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce in the Harding cabinet. Both Mr. Barnes and Mr. Finley have frequently been in conference with the department of state and administration officials general in recent months in the hope of persuading the American government to participate more actively in the economic readjustment of world affairs.

The resolution passed at Rome is unquestionably an effort to give moral support to any step which the Harding administration may desire to take whenever the clouds on the present European skies clear up sufficiently to permit the calling of another international conference. At the Rome meeting are representatives of the business interests of the whole world, and is significant that American business leaders have felt warranted in urging a solution along the very lines which the Harding administration has been advocating in its formal parleys with European governments in the last 12 months.

Closing Night At Big Revival Greatest Of All, Says Sheridan

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, N. H.

Dear Dolly—I want your advice. My husband left me and my young baby for nothing. He won't work and hasn't tried to provide a home for me. Dolly, who should I go to have him arrested for non-support. Could I have him brought back to jail if he does not provide for his family? Dolly, should I live with him if he comes back? I love him but I don't think he loves me. We have only been married nineteen months. Let me know what you think best to do.

TIMES READER:

If you know your husband's address you might write and tell him that you will give him another chance to make good, and if he does not come back or make any effort to provide for you and the baby, you can go down to the Municipal court and swear out a warrant for his arrest on a non-support charge. He can't escape that duty by leaving town. The officers can trace him down and bring him back to face the charge and he will have to support you or go to jail. If your husband deserted you and your baby after nineteen months of wedded life, he must have been pretty much of a scoundrel when you married him. You probably know what he was, but decided to take a chance anyway. I guess you figured that any kind of a man was better than no man at all, but you changed your mind over this.

Dear Dolly—What do you think of a mother who will allow her daughters to come in at all hours of the night in macabres. She also lets them carry on scandalously around the house and out in front of the house, until the neighbors are thoroughly disgusted with the way they are acting up. Dolly, there are nice girls in the neighborhood of young and tender years, whose mothers do not want to see the bad example set by these girls. Now, who could they be reported to, and made behave themselves? They are getting to be the talk of the town.

NEW BOSTON READER:

The fact that the daughters do the things you mentioned, shows that their mother has fallen down on her job long ago. A mother who brings her children up in the way they should go, need not worry about where they are, or what they are doing. The actions of these girls will affect weak-minded and irresponsible girls, and I think something should be done to save them. If there are any careful women in the neighborhood who have any influence with the mother or daughters, they should go to them and tell them in a nice, kind way, the difference between the right and wrong way to conduct themselves. The girls may not know they are headed for the how-woes. All they can see ahead, is a good time and a joy ride. They can't stretch their imagination far enough to see the consequences. Now is the time to save them, and it is up to you to see what you can do about it.

Dear Dolly—I am 16 years of age and go to the Wheelersburg high school. Now, Dolly, I want you to print in The Times the average size of boys wearing long trousers. What I mean is their height and weight.

LUIS BOY:

It isn't necessary to wait until you have reached a certain height or weight before you begin wearing long trousers. Whenever you feel sufficiently grown-up to put 'em on, hop to it. If one had to be a certain height, there would be lots of small men still wearing short trousers. When you begin to feel awkward and out of place in your knickerbockers, I think it about time to put on long ones.

Dear Dolly—I have a pretty long, but the fish worms are so bad in it that I am afraid they will eat it up. Do you know of any way that

SOCIAL NEWS

An interesting wedding that will come as a delightful surprise to their many friends, was solemnized in Cincinnati last Friday afternoon, when Miss Doris Dupuy, one of the lovely daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Dupuy, of 1531 Third street, became the bride of Mr. Walter D. Hughes, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Hughes, of 315 Offshore street, and a valued employee of the Times Publishing Company.

The ceremony was performed at six o'clock at the parsonage of the Ninth Street Baptist church, with the pastor, Rev. John F. Herget, reading the impressive ring service of the Baptist church. The attendants were Miss Ethel Eckhart, with whom Miss Dupuy had been visiting for the past week, and several of her girl friends.

The bride, who is a very beautiful young woman, was charming in a modish suit of dark blue peridot twill, with hat, gloves and slippers of grey. Her bridal bouquet was a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes remained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Eckhart, former residents of Portsmouth, until Sunday afternoon, when they returned to this city and have since been kept busy receiving the congratulations and best wishes of their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes will make their home with relatives until they can find a suitable apartment.

An apron and bake sale will be held on Saturday of this week by the ladies of Group One of the Eastern Stars. The sale will begin at one o'clock in the afternoon and will be held at the Hayes Motor Company, Gallia Square, one door east of the Manhattan restaurant.

All members are asked to bring their Lenten offering to this meeting.

On his way back he will stop over in Cleveland and Chicago on business for The Fleckenstein Company. Mrs. Fairtrace will leave in a short time to join her husband, probably for the summer season, but will return to this city again the latter part of the summer.

The David Tappan Circle of the First Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock at the church.

Walter Chick, Jr., of 511 Grimes avenue, has enlisted in the U. S. Navy and is now in training at Norfolk, Virginia.

The concert will be under the direction of Prof. Elmer Ende, and the chorus will sing "Hallelujahs Wedding Feast," by Coleridge Taylor.

Mrs. J. W. Stiles, who has been ill with an attack of the flu for the past week, is improving. She is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Pyles, of Sciotoville.

A food and Easter egg sale will be given by the ladies of Holy Redeemer church on Saturday of this week at Went's Meat Market on Gallia and Findlay streets, and also at the Distel Furniture Store, Seventh and Chillicothe streets. All kinds of good things to eat will be on sale as well as vari-colored Easter eggs. The proceeds will be added to the building fund of the new Mercy Hospital, which is now under the course of construction. Those who want to help with this worthy cause are invited to patronize these two sales.

Madame Amelia Galli-Curci will sing in Huntington, W. Va., on the evening of Wednesday, May 11th, under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club of that city. The concert will be given in the City Hall Auditorium.

Beginning at nine o'clock tomorrow morning, Group One of the Eastern Stars will hold a rummage sale in the basement of the Allen M. E. Chapel, Thirtieth and Waller streets. Various articles of wearing apparel will be for sale at reasonable prices.

Mrs. E. D. Stevens of Fifth street has returned from a several weeks' stay at Battle Creek, Michigan.

At 2:30 tomorrow afternoon the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Mrs. George Cross, 234 Second street. It is important that all members be present.

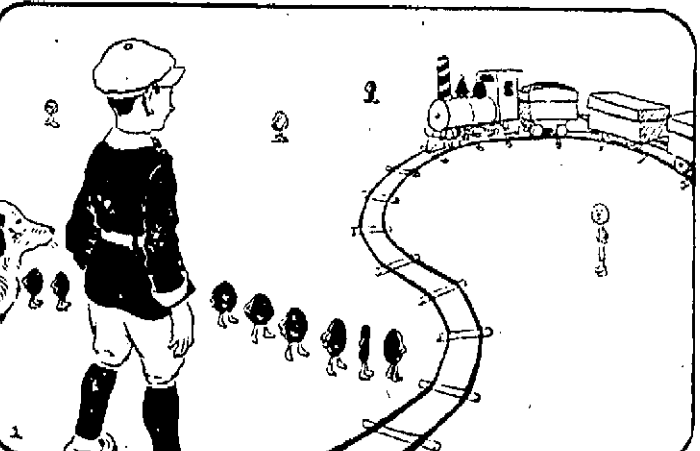

Tomorrow afternoon and evening, from 4:30 until 7:30 o'clock, Group Six of the Eastern Stars will serve one of their delicious chicken suppers in their hall, on the sixth floor of the Masonic Temple. The menu will consist of creamed chicken, mashed potatoes, peas, slaw, hot biscuits, jelly, ice cream, cake and coffee.

Paderewski will appear in Memorial Hall Columbus, on Tuesday evening, April 10th, instead of this evening, as previously announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lloyd of Walnut street and Mrs. Fannie Jones and son, Forest, of McDermott, enjoyed a motor trip to Columbus and Mt. Sterling, Sunday, where they visited relatives.

The choir of the Second Presbyterian church under the direction of Prof. Elmer Ende, will present two beautiful cantatas Friday night in the church auditorium, "The Seven Last Words," by Schütz, and "Gallia," by Gounod. The general public is invited to attend this service.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

Now, who ever heard of a candy choo-choo train? Well, there is one, just the same. And it wasn't but a short time before Jack had a look at it. The chocolate peppermint marshmallow right down the railroad track which was made of long, soft sticks of licorice candy. There they halted.

How new method WASHES dirt and danger out of rugs and carpets

Performs wonders in restoring old beauty of color and design. Kills disease germs and moths. Sterilizes and prolongs life of floor coverings. Used by U. S. Government and great hotels

EVERY shoe that crosses your doorstep, tramps its quota of street-smut, grease, filth, and disease germs onto your fine rugs and carpets. So they quickly grow unclean to sight and touch. Their pleasing design and cheerful colors vanish beneath a mask of dirt, that to every discriminating visitor says louder than words: "Unclean! UNCLEAN!"

Danger lurks in dirty carpets

Floor coverings in this condition are a veritable garden of germs, and a positive menace to health. In them the deadly microbes of diphtheria, pneumonia and tuberculosis, which have been spit on the street, may have found lodgement. This risk of dirty carpets and rugs is so great that no thoughtful person will fail to heed this message.

Handkerchiefs are not brushed clean

Soiled handkerchiefs are not cleaned with a whisk-broom. No more, can the hundred-fold worse dirt and street blotches in a carpet be removed by brushing over it. Good hot suds and water and scrubbing and rinsing are vital. And that is exactly how the Hamilton Beach Carpet Washer cleans.

A sensation wherever shown

At every electrical show, this machine has been a feature exhibit. Countless thousands have seen its almost miraculous work. All have marveled at what is pictured here; a rug being washed to newness. The transformation thus made is unbelievably startling. In front of the Carpet Washer is a dead monotony of lack of color, a spiritless drab. Shoe contact has stained the rug; settling dust has dirtied and permeated it.

But behind the washer as it moves forward, all the original rich color and exquisite design is being brought out. The charming color scheme that first delighted, reappears with refreshed vigor. Gorgeous colors spring to life with irresistible newness. Bright yellow, rich blue, soft rose, all are made fair and taintless, while the entire rug is sterilized.

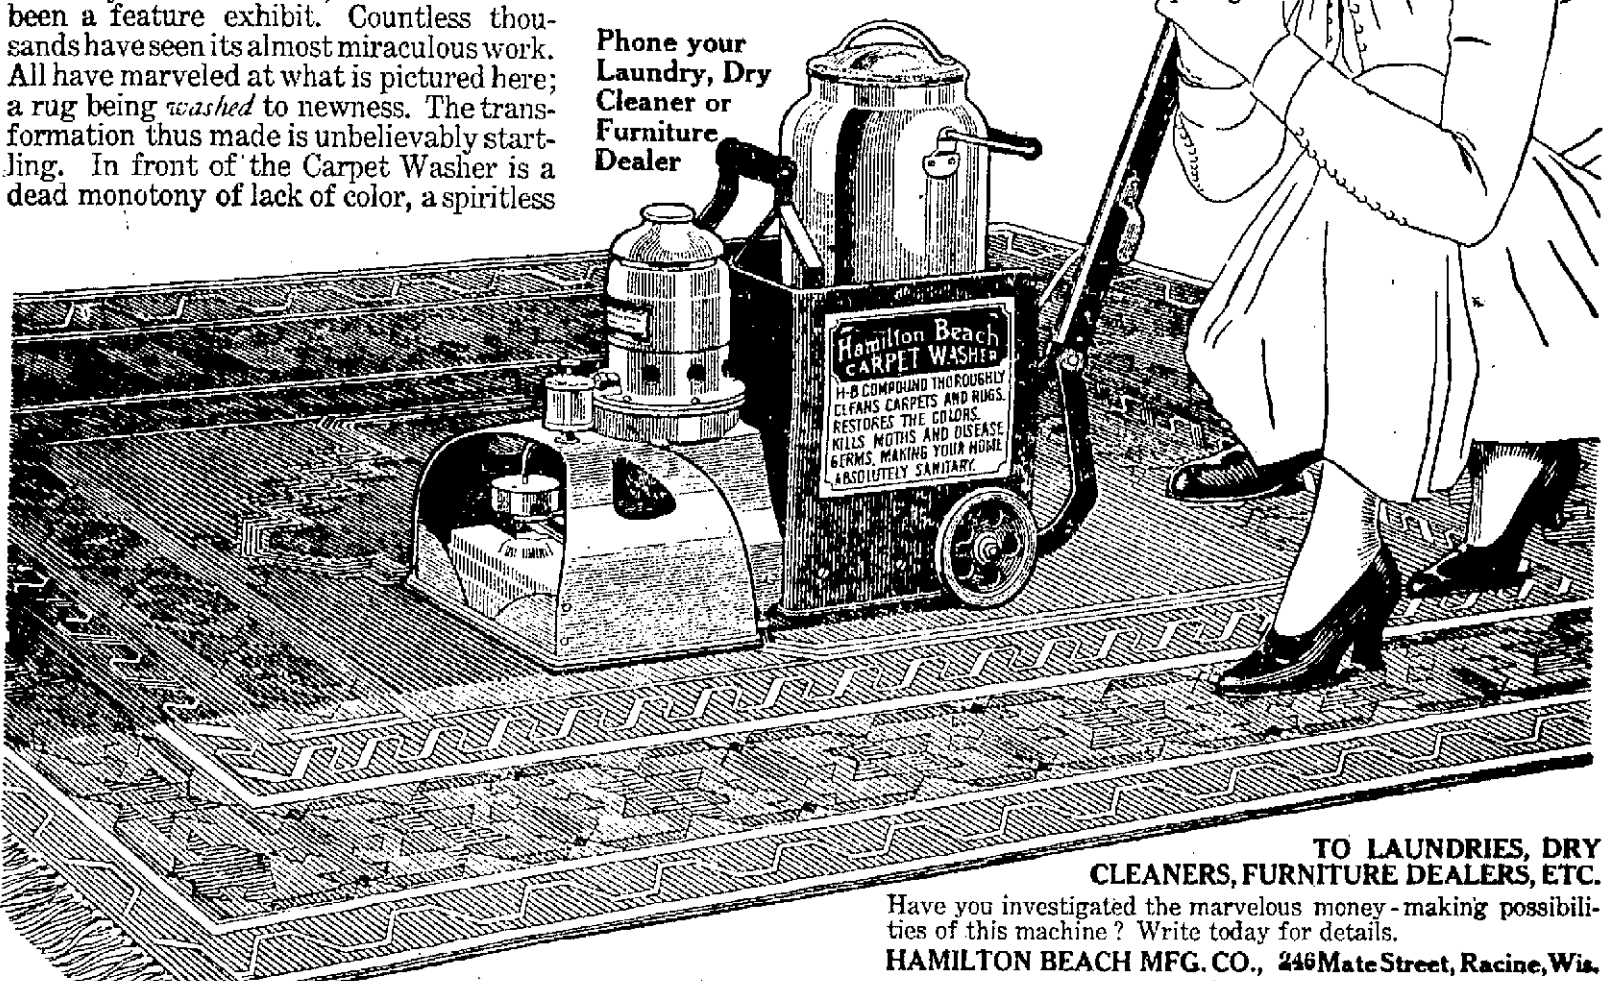

No home can be truly clean unless rugs and carpets are washed! No method is as efficient and economical as the Hamilton Beach. Your laundry, dry cleaner or furniture dealer has this machine or can easily get it. Phone him, now.

Special Introductory Offer

$3.25 to clean a 9 x 12

For a limited time only, a 9 x 12 will be Hamilton Beach WASHED for $3.25—less than half of what ordinary cleaners charge for similar work. Your floor coverings will be washed exactly as the U. S. Government cleans the finest rugs in Washington. The work is guaranteed. This special advertising offer will naturally be withdrawn soon. Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"What do you wish to see the Cut-Out Lady for?" asked the Muffin Man.

"We want to tell her to sew the Gingerbread Man's buttons on straight," said Nancey.

"The Gingerbread Man?" exclaimed the baker.

"Why I made him myself a year ago last Christmas. I gave him a red tartan coat with cinnamon drops for buttons and white frills out of a candy box. Why does he need more buttons?"

"They come off in the wash," said Nancey. "Then when the Cut-Out Lady does his mending she sews 'em on crooked and they won't go into the button-holes."

All members of the Young People's Missionary Society of Bigelow church will please take notice that the meeting tomorrow evening has been changed from the home of Miss Violet Cunningham, on Hitching street to the home of Mrs. D. A. Bernat, 1304 Gallia street.

"Why does she sew them on crooked?" asked the Muffin Man.

"Because the Gingerbread Man's knickerbocker dog bites her cocoonant and pulls all the cocoonant fur off."

"Well, I declare!" said the Muffin Man. "I tell you what. When you see her tell her to send her cat to me and I'll make him a coat of hair being that won't come off. Then he needn't be afraid of fifty knickerbocker dogs. Now mind you tell her."

"All right," said Nancey.

"And if that doesn't help, stop at the Picture-Book house and ask them to give the Cut-Out Lady another side so she'll have two eyes. Then she can see better."

"All right, thank you. We shall," said Nick.

"And if that doesn't help, tell the Gingerbread Man to move the button-holes on his coat every time the buttons come home, on crooked."

"All right! We'll do everything," called the Twins running ahead.

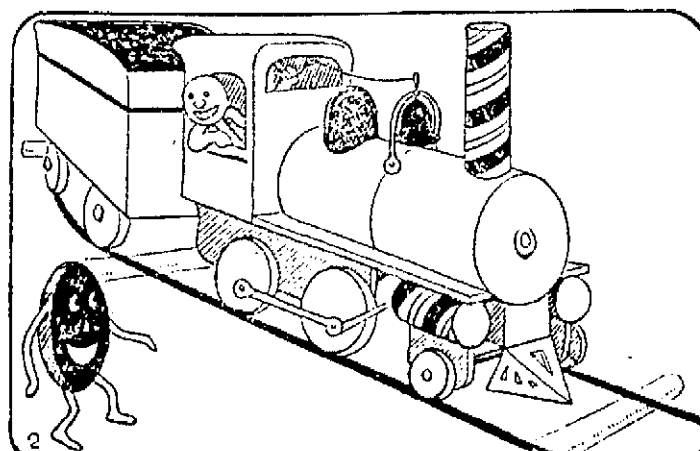

"Won't you have something to eat?" called the Muffin Man. "I've got hard buns and soft buns, plain buns and raisin buns, sweet buns and yeast buns, big buns and little buns, hot buns and cold buns—"

His voice trailed away into nothing. The Twins hadn't heard a word he said. They were far beyond hearing.

On this winding track Jack saw the choo-choo train of Candy Land. The little engine had a peppermint stick smoke stack, a chocolate drop bell, and little round candies for wheels. Attached to it were the candy box cars. "All aboard for No-One-Knows-Where!" shouted the little engineer.

And Jack noticed that this candy man, leaning far out of the engine's cab window, had a big round head. "Hello, there," shouted Jack, "do you have to work very hard?" "I'll say I do," came the reply. "In fact I work all day long simply because I am a regular All Day Sucker." (Continued.)

Attractive Apparel and Accessories at Andersons' for Easter--- and Afterward

We especially invite you to view this season's Easter Display because of its unusual attractiveness. In the foremost fashion centers our buyers collected the distinctive costumes which compose these complete assortments and we feel justly proud of them. And since as a shopping occasion the Saturday before Easter is very much like the day before Christmas it is suggested that you visit the store at your earliest convenience.

Our Capes For Spring Afford All The Variety And Fashion That The Feminine Heart Could Desire

And to make you all the more eager we announce the arrival of many new models which have been added to our stocks thus making our already wonderful collection still more charming and valuable especially for Easter week.

WRAPPY COATS, $32.50 up.

You Like A Hand Made Blouse Don't You?

If you don't you are a mighty funny woman because everybody that views these exquisite blouses revealing such beautiful colors on sheer materials simply falls in love with them and since they cost but $2.98 to $10.75 you can afford to have at least one.

King Tut Skirts

Of course we don't know whether King Tut-Ankh-Amen wore skirts or not but at any rate he lived in Egypt and these Egyptian crepes made up in sport skirts in over plaid and knife pleated models are all the rage and priced at $6.98 to $10.75.

Do You Like A Riot?

That's hardly a fair question because we know you would simply adore the "riot" of color revealed in this showing of hand made Easter petticoats, which we find are selling quite rapidly at $6.98 to $11.50.

Get Right And Keep Going

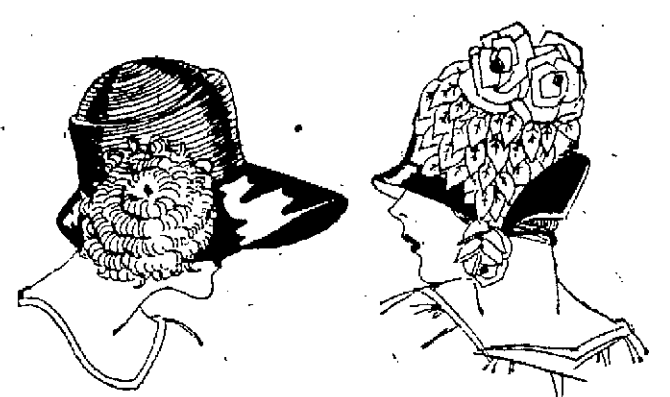

Among the famous utterances of Abraham Lincoln is this: "I do the very best I know how; the very best I can, and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

And how true that is in the life of an institution. If Andersons' Store Service were not satisfactory; if our courtesy were hypocritical; if our offerings were less than honest and our efforts insincere, a dozen pages of advertising each day, and all praising the store, would, as Lincoln said, "make no difference."

But by doing the very best we know how; the very best we can; and being determined to keep doing so, we never have nor never will fear the outcome. Nor do we have to await an answer for the verdict is being pronounced daily by the demonstrated confidence of satisfied patrons.

Feast Of The Passover

Passover, known in the Synagog as Pesach, falls due this year on Sunday, April 1st. It is one of the institutions of Judaism which has gained wide acceptance and joyous approval and is observed for a period of seven days by the more liberal, and eight by those more ritually inclined. The first and last days however, have a special ritual observance in connection with Temple service, the keynote of which is liberation and redemption from bondage. During the Passover all Jewish families do without leaven in any form, using instead a large, flat, wafer-shaped bread called Matzo, as a more ritually inclined. The first reminder of the hasty exodus of their fathers from the land of oppression, Egypt. On this historical event, the Feast of Unleavened Bread, as the Passover became in later periods, was built up. Originally an agricultural festival, it was later transformed into a festival symbolic of liberty and redemption; when the Hebrews, who were slaves unto Pharaoh, were led forth by the outstretched hand of providence from the thralldom of their bondage. Throughout the Passover celebration there echoes the note of gratefulness for the many miracles that were wrought in behalf of Israel, not only in the remote day of their Egyptian sojourn, but even unto the present hour. Israel is reminded of the momentous time when his ancestors were delivered from the yoke of the Egyptian and brought out from bondage into freedom. From a night of physical and spiritual darkness into the light of his own self-realization as a free and responsible being.

The Passover feast is keyed to this dominant thought of liberty and redemption from bigotry, ignorance and oppression. The observers of this feast recall that no matter how brutally the tyrant may oppress the sons of Israel, the cry of their persecution will be heard in the heavenly heights. Safety is vouchsafed and they will be led into their heritage as the priests of God's law of justice.

A festival of such significant spiritual potentialities has in course of time evolved an elaborate miniature of ceremonial observance, especially in regard to the prohibition of leaven. But at no time, not even in the darkest days of medievalism, was the synagogue or the home burdened by these observances. On the contrary, home and synagogue resound with song and thanksgiving. Young and old participate in the symbolism of the feast and welcome the advent of Passover.

Winning Class Will Get Banner

The Chillicothe News Advertiser says: Expressing the opinion that the railroads of the United States will spend twice as much this year as was ever known before, for new equipment, Capt. A. A. Jans of the Baltimore and Ohio returned Saturday from a meeting of the officials at Baltimore. All had been called rather suddenly for a spring schedule meeting and he said that the general report from all sources is to the effect that business is undergoing a tremendous boom. More trains were ordered for the eastern division but to date no changes on this division were agreed upon.

New rolling stock and repaired cars and engines are being turned out at a rapid rate all over the United States according to Mr. Jans but it will not keep up with the demand. All shops have been empowered to employ all available help, and there is no reason why everybody should not be at work.

Harding To Carry The Fight To Insurgent Congressmen

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA., March 26. (By the United Press)—President Harding will carry the fight to congressional insurgents who repudiated certain of his policies according to plans learned from members of the vacation party today. Sweeping through the west on an old-fashioned snapping tour, the president will lay his defense before the electorate, the spokesman said. The trip will be for the possibility of solidification of the house behind the administration, rather than a political appeal. Mr. Harding believes that if the country understands the truths that lie behind his plan and policies, it will not support the insurgents who hold the balance of power in the new congress. The president has told close friends that the supposedly authoritative announcements do not mean that his decision to run again cannot be changed. Mr. Harding thinks that he is the one to decide finally whether he is to be a candidate in the next election, and that if the insurgents upset the administration program and discredit party leaders it might be useless or even dangerous for him to seek re-election. But in view of the progressive situation now he believes the way to beat the insurgents is to carry the fight to them.

EASTER APPAREL WONDERFULLY PRICED IN ASSORTMENTS THAT ARE ARRIVING DAILY

Our prices are so moderate that our friends really can't conceive of such beautiful dresses, wraps, coats, suits, blouses, skirts and hosiery being sold so low — when — especially after shopping among the stores paying tremendous rents — they realize that we show — at all times — the very newest.

An added feature — all garments are exclusive.

In Grandmother's Day

When grandmother kept house, Monday and Tuesday were washing and ironing days. Friday and Saturday were for housecleaning and beating the rugs. A lot of time was lost in cooking, washing the dishes and other household chores.

Today the up-to-date housekeeper's washing is done before Monday noon. Electric irons speed Tuesday into a couple of hours. Grandmother never imagined that meals could be prepared so rapidly or that dish washing could be disposed of in such short order. She would have marveled at the effectiveness of vacuum cleaners, better cleansers and the many household helps designed to lighten, quicken and improve the work.

Deal Includes Magnificent Home; Ground To Be Divided Into Building Lots At Once

One of the most important real estate deals that has been closed in Portsmouth for many months was consummated Monday when C. C. Herr purchased the Third and Fourth streets area, a point almost as far east as Brown street the lots will go on the market.

It was rumored that the York home, one of the most complete in this section, would be razed to permit more lots to be laid out, but Mr. Herr says he has not made up his mind definitely just what he will do with the house after possession is given.

"I'd like to live in it with my family, but it is probably too large for us."

Mrs. York has no plans for the future other than she will remain in Portsmouth.

Workmen Monday were engaged in tearing down the heavy brick wall which fronts the York place on Jackson avenue. It was built three years ago by the late L. D. York.

Good Friday Music Rehearsed At All Saints' Church

The choir of All Saints' church, with the assistance of leading musicians in the city, have been working faithfully for weeks past at rehearsals of The Seven Last Words of Christ, by Theodore Du Bois. That their labors have borne fruit was evident to those privileged to hear a complete rehearsal of this fine composition yesterday. It is a task beyond the average choir to give anything like an adequate rendition of this music, but competent judges assure the writer that the artists who will sing the Seven Last Words at

All Saints' Church on Good Friday evening are prepared in every way to do full justice to the lofty theme. It is clear that the magnificent results obtained two years ago when Sir John Stainer's "magnum opus" was sung will be equalled, if not exceeded.

Professor Du Bois has succeeded in his attempt to preserve all the dramatic values of the sacred words, and his composition is free from vulgarity and is in all respects a model work. Watch the "Times" for further particulars of this event.

Manly Revival Opens

Manly will start a "follow-up" meeting tomorrow (Tuesday evening) at 7:15.

J. H. Finney will deliver the message. Mr. Glen Delbrun will sing and the Manly quartet will render some selections. Miss Scribner will conduct the congregational singing. Special program each evening.

Let every new convert signed up for our church and every reconsecrated person be present each evening.

Let us prove by our interest that the enthusiasm of the Anderson service was genuine.

The large men's class taught by Mr. Finney is to be present and sit in a body out of respect for the teacher.

Let every member get behind this movement.

UNITED BRETHREN CHURCH NEWS

The attendance of 735 in the Sunday School yesterday morning at the United Brethren church was one of the greatest victories won by the local church in recent years. The fact that special attractions and inducements were offered upon other occasions and that yesterday nothing less than the Sabbath School, makes those in charge rejoice at the really great and wonderful opportunity for a far reaching and constructive Sunday School program at the church located at the corner of Seventh and Gay.

Although no special attraction was promised the regular session with the special duet by Mr. Floyd Smith and Mr. Miles Throckmorton and the singing by the Boys' choir which filled every seat in the choir loft, were greatly appreciated by the large crowd to say nothing of the wonderful selections rendered by the faithful Sunday School orchestra under the direction of Prof. Joseph Mastropolo.

A large crowd also attended the special Union Sunday service that was conducted by

Wilson Asks Appointment Of Thompson As Senator

DENVER, Colo., March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Woodrow Wilson, former president of the United States, asked Governor W. E. Sweet, of Colorado, to appoint Hiram Thompson, Democrat, to a seat in the United States senate, to succeed Samuel D. Nicholson, Republican, who died Saturday night. Thompson now is a member of the Federal Trade Commission.

Governor Sweet announced he had received the following telegram from the former president:

"I trust you will not think it an unwarranted liberty if I express the hope that you will select my friend Hiram Thompson, for the vacant seat in the senate."

Romantic Ending

MARIETTA, O., March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—A romantic ending to the sensational charges made against Lloyd Nix and Eva Clark, his common law wife, held in the county jail here under $25,000 bond in connection with the death of the young woman's infant daughter, was expected this afternoon when they are to be married in private court following dismissal of the charges against them. The child died a week ago, being found dead with a part of its chest eaten away by rodents.

The baby's neck was thought to have been broken, according to the report of the undertaker. The body was exhumed Saturday and death was found to have been caused by bronchial pneumonia. The formal report of the investigators was made today and resulted in the dismissal of charges against Nix and the two who had lived as man and wife for several months.

Big Revival On West Side

The United Brethren revival which is being conducted in Nauvoo will continue until Easter. Large congregations are being present at each service and much interest is manifest by the members and friends of the little church.

Nervous Traveler Who Couldn't Sleep Says Plain Bitro-Phosphate Put Him Right.

A Kentucky commercial traveler whose health had failed to the extent that he was about ready to give up his position, found that the organic phosphate known as Bitro-Phosphate possessed remarkable properties for restoring weak nerves and building up strength and endurance. Numerous physicians of late have recommended the use of this harmless, inexpensive substance. All good druggists now keep it in stock. Advertisement.

Nature's Wonderful Mechanism.

It has been estimated that the power developed by 1,000,000 Niagara in 1,000,000 years would not equal the energy expended by the earth in a single second as it circles around the sun. And yet, so perfect is the mechanism that, flying around its axis at an equatorial speed of more than 1,000,000 miles an hour and around its orbit at more than 1,100 miles a minute, all the mundane influences of which astronomers know could not change the length of its day as much as a second in 100,000 years.

Great Work Done by Librarians.

A child does not read to criticize or compare, but just in the unselfed joy of finding itself in a new world. To see a youngster reading in the stuns is to me the most subtly heart-searching experience I know. And behind every child is the heart and brain of some teacher or librarian that made the book possible and put it into his hand. This is one thing that librarians do, and it is the greatest thing I know. —Christopher Morley.

Must Give Security For Costs

Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Monday sustained a motion by the defense in the case of Three States Coal company against Vernon Coal company, Rarden, to require the plaintiff company to give security for costs and the court entered an order requiring a $100 deposit. The plaintiff sued for damages for alleged breach of contract involving the sale of coal.

Judge Thomas on the Bench

Judge James S. Thomas, who arrived home Saturday night from Cleveland, where he held court for four weeks, presided over a short session of court Monday. He will hear a number of court cases during the week and next week, starting Monday, he will preside over the trial of several cases which have been assigned for hearing before the petit jury.

It is quite likely Judge Thomas will convene a grand jury on the opening of the April term of court about the middle of April. There are a number of cases on the criminal docket for investigation, the most important of which are two homicides, one of which occurred on February 23, when Goldie Hudson shot and killed her sweetheart, Thomas C. Le in her home on 13th street, and the Otway tragedy on March 10, when Verna McCall, young school teacher, shot and killed Otto E. Blackburn during a desperate encounter in McCall's house.

Mrs. Logan Granted Divorce

Claydes Logan, New Boston, has been granted a decree by Judge Thomas, divorcing her from Walter E. Logan, Buffalo, according to an approved entry filed in the office of the clerk of courts Monday. The case was heard several weeks ago and then continued for further investigation. The decree was granted on the ground of cruelty and Logan was ordered to pay the plaintiff the sum of $10 a week as alimony and $25 to her attorneys.

Among the little girls present were Phyllis Sheridan, Ruth Boyd, Helen Hahn, Mary Woolridge, Thelma Cook, Joan Wiltsee, Marilyn Peel, Sara Scudder, Rosemary Eckhart, Juanita Thompson, Edna Wilson, Harriet Switalski, Kathleen Jenkins, Caroline Johnson, Mary Christine Russell, Mary Osborn, Virginia Osborn, Olive Hartman, Rosella Harper, Marguerite Miller and Betty and Janet Reeg.

Wills Is Sorry He Did Not Go After Godfrey

NEW YORK, March 26—Harry Wills is in mourning. The big fighter lost someone very near and dear to him recently, a young person named Lotta Dough.

Harry had a chance to fight George Godfrey, another negro heavyweight. But he didn't accept the invitation. And he didn't give any reasons why. And then along came Jack Remick and handed Godfrey a round-trip ticket to Slumberland. Wills, now figures he could have done the same in training Godfrey certainly looked good.

P. H. S. MAY PLAY TWO GAMES WITH IRONTON

Chances of P. H. S. playing two games with Ironton high on the gridiron in 1923 are very good, plans for two games being under consideration by the athletic directors of both schools.

Heretofore the P. H. S. eleven played in Ironton one season and at home with that team the next year, but as there is considerable interest in these games it is thought that two games each year would not be amiss, as both are sure to attract banner crowds, which fact would also enrich their treasuries.

Ironton expects to have on their 1923 football schedule Ashland, Ceredo-Kenora, Chillicothe, Gallipolis, a Columbus team, a Cincinnati team and Portsmouth.

Yanks And Giants Win Their Games

NEW YORK, March 26—Both the Giants and the Yankees won their exhibition games yesterday, the former downing the White Sox 8 to 6 and the American Leaguers defeating the New Orleans Pelicans at New Orleans 3 to 2.

WELL I'LL SWAN

PINEHURST, N. C., March 26—Miss Marion Hollins, 1921 national title-holder, and Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, Philadelphia star, met today in the second round of the women's north and south golf championship tournament.

Well, Jack Is Going To Be A Busy Boy

Jack Kearns at Chicago says three fights have been arranged tentatively for Jack Dempsey, with Luis Firpo, Jess Willard and Harry Wills.

Two Real Infielders

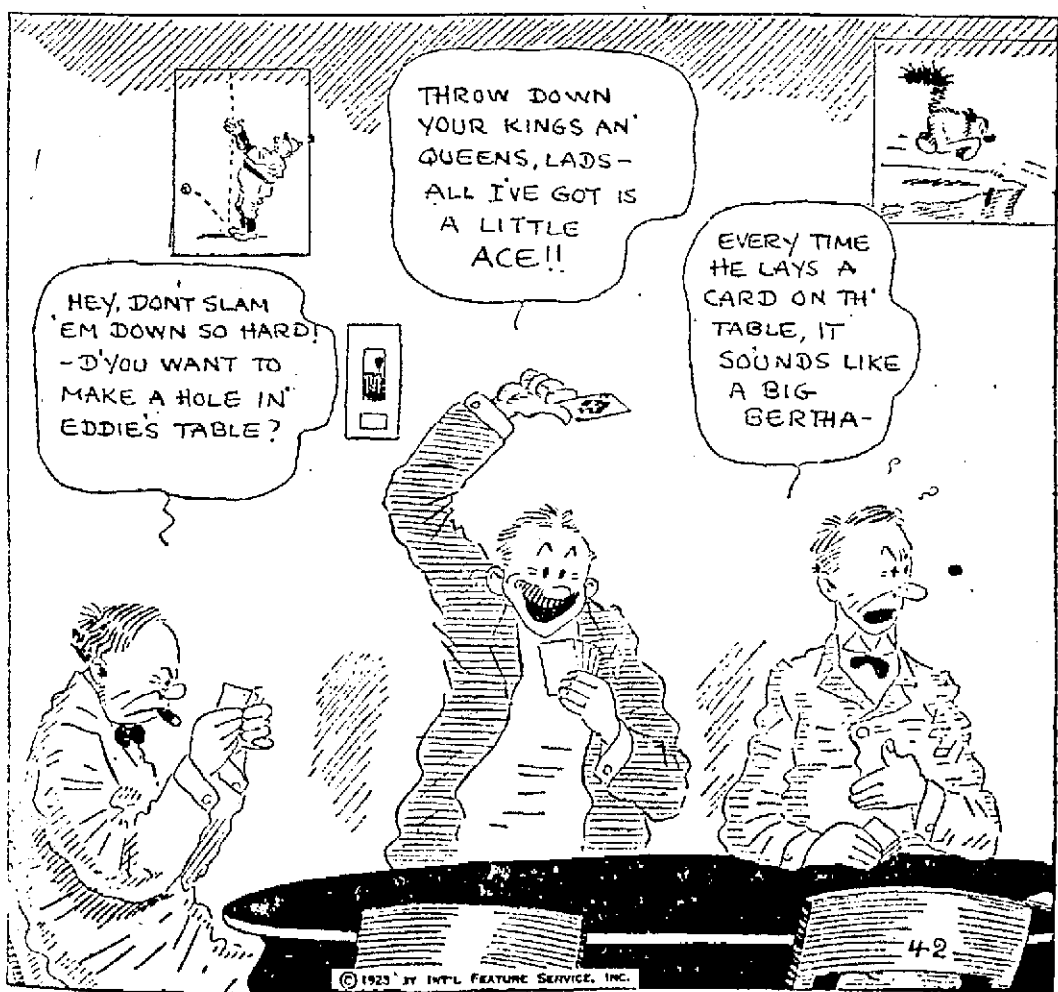

Bohne and Pinelli of the Reds are playing great ball this spring and should be real stars in the National league this season. There is no question but what they are two of the most valuable infielders in the country today.

Field Meet

WEST UNION, March 26—The High Schools of Adams county will meet at West Union, on the Fair Grounds, on May 12th, for an all day athletic meet. Each High School in the county will participate in the event.

EDDIE'S FRIENDS

Old Vigor And Vim Himself

Is Roush Ready To Sign?

Now comes the story that Eddie Roush has shown signs of weakening and is ready to sign his contract. He probably has been holding off, so he could duck the spring training trip, which is no pleasure jaunt to any of the old heads. Roush has been playing ball every day and is in fine condition.

VETERAN AND RECRUIT INFIELD BOSTON'S ACE IN THE HOLE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 26—The Boston Braves have the best collection of infield recruits of any of the major league clubs thus far seen in action by Billy Evans, special sports writer for the Portsmouth Daily Times.

While it is possible that none of the rookie infielders will break into the opening game lineup, still there is a chance that Manager Mitchell may make some changes in the infield situation as a result of the fine showing of several youngsters.

The Boston infield of last year consisted of Boeckel at third, Kopf at short, Ford at second and Holke at first.

The sale of Holke to Philadelphia means that first base is open. Stuff McInnis will play that position, although before the signing of the former American League star, Fred Henry had shown enough to make it appear as if he would be able to fill in most acceptably.

Ford at second is a certainty. He is a mighty fine ball player. None of the recruits has a chance to get anywhere as far as second base is concerned.

PICKING GIANTS OR REDLEGS

Baseball writers, who have been in the South and have visited all the training camps claim that the National league pennant lies between the Giants and the Reds with the Pirates and Cardinals as the runners up.

In the American league the Yanks are picked to repeat, providing Babe Ruth, home-run king, stages a comeback.

ERMINE AND VELVET

A short coat of ermine, with wide, flowing sleeves is worn with a black velvet skirt with ermine tails outlining the pocket. This makes an unusually quaint and picturesque costume.

No Change

There is no change in the condition of Wm. Hall, who is very ill, at his home on Union street.

Gets Funeral Car

Undertaker Al. Windel has returned from Lansing, Mich., where he secured a new car for his funeral service and drove it through to Portsmouth.

Is Improving

Mrs. Harry Smith, who has been ill at her home on Robinson avenue, is improving.

From Suspended List To Manager In Year

From the suspended list to major league manager in less than a year. That one sentence sums up the climax to the career of the veteran shortstop Owen "Donie" Bush of the Washington American League team.

Just prior to the opening of the 1922 campaign Bush was suspended by Owner Clark Griffith for what was termed insubordination.

Bush failed to report for spring training. He gave as his reason an operation on one of his eyes. That was the real cause.

Owner Griffith, however, believed that Bush was merely trying to skip spring training. The Washington club had scheduled a number of one-day stands through the south. Nothing is more irksome to the veteran player. Griffith thought Bush was trying to dodge the issue.

Bush was suspended without pay until in condition to play. The penalty imposed by Griffith caused a verbal combat between the two that for a time waxed warm.

Perhaps the fighting spirit Bush showed in the clash with Griffith was a good thing for him. In naming him manager Griffith praises his fighting spirit.

VILLA-WILDE MATCH MEANS REAL FIGHT

BY HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 26—(United Press)—Something for that proverbial legal expert of Philadelphia to untangle will result if Paucio Villa, the little tan Philadelphian, wins the world's flyweight championship from Jimmy Wilde, the half-plait sized Welshman.

If form in general and information from the other side about the physical condition of Wilde can be taken as a foundation for some predictions, then Villa will win the world's title and he will be officially in the position of No. 1 in the world and No. 2 in the United States.

Frankie Conroy, who went to the Olympic championship in the amateurs and later pumped with just as much success into the pro field, has three decisions over Villa and the last one took the title away from the pride of the Philippines.

In some circles it was considered a terrible decision, but the fact remains that it was a decision, it went on the books and it made Genaro the American title-holder.

Many questions have been asked as to why the tangle was not avoided by matching Genaro and Wilde for a clean-cut title bout to the crown. Those who cannot understand why Villa and not Genaro got the bout with Wilde are not conversant with the considerations that rule boxing now.

Money not merit is of the first consideration now in matchmaking. The boy who is the best drawing card gets the matches, not the lad most entitled to them. In many cases the same qualifications go hand in hand, but not in the case of Genaro.

He has no "color" while Villa is filled with it; Genaro is a boxer, a wonderful little fellow on the defense and Villa is a fighter, one who is in there all the time making a show; Genaro is a quiet little fellow without much romance to him, as Italian faces are old faces in the ring; Villa is the first yellow man to gain prominence in the prize ring and the novelty makes him a great drawing card. Villa can hit and Wilde used to pack ten pounds of a punch to every inch of his diminutive frame.

That makes it a fighter against a fighter and that makes it a card.

Villa and Wilde will outdraw any other little man attraction.

Elaborate Gowns Worn By Miss Taylor as the Vampire At The Eastland This Week

WILLIAM FOX PRESENTS "A FOOL THERE WAS"

Elaborate gowns are worn by Estelle Taylor, who plays the 1923 campfire in "A Fool There Was," the William Fox special which comes to the Eastland Theatre for one week beginning today. Miss Taylor, one of the younger actresses, knows how to dress, and wears fourteen different costumes during the picture.

First, an evening gown, brocaded with princess effect, very tight fitting lavender and silver satin, is made—the bodice encased in pearls.

backless and sleeveless except for loose garlands of pearls draped around the arms. A large butterfly bow of silver brocade at the waist line in the back surmounts the narrow graceful train, a head-dress of pearls, and silver slippers complete the costume. The cost of this outfit complete—including head-dress, shoes, stockings, milking, etc.—was $750; the heavy silver brocade satin itself costing $50 per yard.

Next in beauty and quite as striking in appearance is an apricot satin evening gown, trimmed with black real lace overskirt and sequins of jet draped in painter effect; graceful tassels of jet finish the drape at the sides and form the train. The cost of this gown totalled $600.

A wonderful sport outfit every woman will envy—"vamp" or otherwise—consists of a white short hat coat of silk crepe with a white round collar of black crepe cloth—mushroom sleeves of white georgette with narrow black binding and small bows of the crepe cloth, an oriental striped knit crepe skirt in black and white with a dash of green, and a black patent leather hat—doesn't that sound snappy?—and only $250.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY G. G. MCINTIRE

NEW YORK, March 26.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Early to the city by train from Chicago and Detroit and breakfasted at home with J. Price, and then to unpacking, having lost no wearing apparel—which was odd.

All afternoon reading letters, some very kind and others chiding me for this and that, and 'deservedly so, but confirming my belief that of all the labour in the world writing is the most thankless. This day I airtied to cross the sea in the summer.

Walked with my dog and fell in with W. Hogg and Irvin Cobb, and to dinner at Mill's and thence to the Newspaper Woman's ball and saw there W. R. Hearst, Marcus Loew, Rita Weiman, Fanny Hurst, Norman Hapgood, Franklin P. Adams and a fellow who insisted at intervals upon showing me a thousand dollar bill, the proud exchequer. So to bed at daylight.

In a haberdashery the other day a visiting Romanoff prince was slapping courtesy to tatters. He bellowed his wants and sneered at each offering so that the ordinary routine of the shop was upset. I see by the morning papers he hasn't enough money to send out for his meals at the Tombs. Prancing is becoming a tough business.

While in Chicago I had breakfast with Valentino and his wife, Miss Huiduti. The screen hero is becoming a very serious minded young man and appears imbued with the idea he has a mission. He thrills to the "better and cleaner pictures" propaganda and is making very excellent speeches following his dance exhibition at a pleasure resort. I do not know if the photoplay is improving, but Valentino has. He is by no means the same young man who was a professional dancer at the Claridge a few years ago.

The newshours in Chicago are quite ingenious. While we were at breakfast one was yelling lustily outside the window: "Pola Givens Charlie The A's!"—which could hardly be improved upon by headline writers.

In Detroit I had breakfast with James Oliver Curwood, the novelist. Curwood is perhaps the greatest lover and student of nature in America. He has made the Northwest a magic land of romance and adventure. The cry of the wolf-pack is more thrilling to his ears than a high note at the Metropolitan. He has slept with a young grizzly and been in many tight places while hunting dangerous wild animals. Still we of the city have our moments of bravery. I noticed Curwood was startled as a waiter let a dish clatter to the floor, while I did not even so much as bat an eye-lash.

It is an excellent thing for the "hemmed-in" New Yorker to leave his city now and then. He gets an idea of how unimportant he really is. One may stay away for any number of weeks and return to find no one knows he has been away. If there is one thing New York never misses it is a human being. I also notice wherever I go a large percentage of folk are enthusiastic to come to New York, and in New York the vast majority wants to live somewhere else.

As senility comes galloping on, I become more and more convinced the most contented people live in the small towns.

Walking from one of the great railroad terminals to my quarters, a distance of a few blocks, I happened to see four or five people I knew. Yet I have gone about the city for 10 days without seeing a single acquaintance.

She isn't weeping tears to me, She's weeping glycerine, This winsome little mix I see Before me on the screen.

Her velvet cheeks are dewy wet, Like flowers that blush unseen But she isn't weeping tears to me, She's weeping glycerine.

She isn't weeping tears to me, She's weeping glycerine: Although the tears are flowing free They're not her own, I ween; Though she may fuss and fume and fret

With sobbing spells between She isn't weeping tears to me, She's weeping glycerine.

She isn't weeping tears to me, She's weeping glycerine: Her eyes too full of merry gleam, Her face too fresh and clean— I cannot help but smile—and yet I s'pose I'm rather mean But she's not weeping tears to me, She's weeping glycerine.

TRIED OUT IN THE WAR

A S a war service, simplification and standardization of certain products were recommended by Herbert Hoover. The spirit of co-operation running high at that time, thousands of manufacturers adopted the plan. How profitable it proved never has been revealed. But Mr. Hoover remains true to his theory of economy then developed. Recently he sent a message to a convention of shoe manufacturers suggesting reduction of style lines and some curtailment of size lines, pointing out benefits likely to be realized. It is reported the manufacturers received the suggestion of a return to war-time practice favorably.

Catering to particular tastes on the part of manufacturers of consumable goods adds interest to every line of business. Presumably it adds profit to the ones most successful in satisfying demand. Yet standardization has been carried to the point that it may be regarded as meeting the wants of such a preponderance of the people that there would be small complaint were the principle extended. This applies to an endless variety of wares.

If the production of shoes can be simplified to the benefit of all parties concerned, the practice will appeal to makers of other things. There might be quite a sacrifice of picturequeness if cigarettes, for instance, were standardized so that the present multiplicity of brands were reduced to less than a dozen. No use to worry about it now, though, for it is one thing to propose a change in practices that have become confirmed and another to find the pioneering spirit to strike out on the new lines and drag all others after him.

A LUSTY YOUNG REPUBLIC

WHILE older nations of Europe continue their silly business of playing ducks and drakes with fortune and future, the lusty young republic of Czechoslovakia goes its way of progress and prosperity, balancing its budget, retiring its paper currency, improving the position of the krona, and sending a mission to Washington to arrange refunding and payment of its debt to the United States.

It will be well to watch Czechoslovakia. In a world fed up on confusion it is gratifying to note the evolving of centers of stability. There is no lost energy through centrifugal force in Czechoslovakia. The Czechs and the Slovaks are not running around in circles as are other people who should know better. Bohemia, Moravia, Slovakia, Ruthenia are working; and what is more important, working together.

While other countries have been spending their substance on large standing armies Czechoslovakia has been marshalling its amazingly well-balanced agricultural, industrial and commercial life. The greatest beet fields in Europe have kept the sugar refineries busy producing cargoes for export. The River Elbe, that flows straight to Hamburg and the North Sea, and the Danube, natural highway to East Europe and the Balkans, have been dotted with busy barges as in the old days. Now, however, the Czechs and Slovaks are working for themselves and not for the Hapsburgs, and magnificent plans have been drawn for expansions, among them a proposed canal to connect the two great waterways. When the rest of Europe settles down and is ready to win in earnest, Czechoslovakia will be prepared.

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

DEVELOPMENT and wealth do not come unassisted. It may be just around the corner, but some other place will entice it away unless it is gone after. It is going somewhere and should come to Portsmouth.

A city must be made attractive to both people and capital before it can be successfully developed. Parks and playgrounds, entertainment for diversion of mind, and the best in churches and schools. Opportunities presented such as exceptional musical attraction should not be overlooked. Natural attractions must be augmented and as long as a city is content to remain idle while far less advantageous places work, development and prosperity will ever be just around the corner or a little further away.

A better understanding and appreciation of the worth to the individual is necessary. With the realization that the city's growth and development means individual growth and development, and more and better opportunities for their children, then will there be greater co-operation. It is difficult too strongly to impress the importance of the work that is necessary to be done.

Edison says the newspapers print too much nonsense. Interviews, for instance.

If the Germans want to carry on an effective conversation with France, they should let their money talk.

Doubtless a proposed law introduced in a legislature is called a bill because, if it is enacted, it means that somebody has to pay.
